PREFACE.

The purpose of this book is to supply a Directory for Home use. The contents will be found to be admirably arranged for the purposes for which a Directory is useful to Society Ladies and Gentlemen. The leading feature is a list of the names and addresses of nearly five thousand Ladies residing in Baltimore, while there will also be found valuable information relative to Churches, Clubs, Charities and other social organizations. The diagrams of the theatres show the location and number of each seat; and other features add greatly to the value of the volume as a book for daily reference.

The publishers desire to acknowledge the uniform courtesy and encouragement extended to them by the community, and confidently hope that the SOCIETY DIRECTORY will prove worthy of the generous patronage it has received.

COMPLETE CALLING CODE.

---

FIRST CALLS.

I.

In the immediate neighborhood, first calls among social equals are due from the oldest resident. This rule does not extend to the different grand divisions of the city, nor even to remote districts in the same division.

II.

After a residence of some years, the distinction of oldest or newest resident is lost, and either party may make the first call at pleasure, or as occasion may require.

III.

Lovers of literature, music or art, may at pleasure, or on any occasion, call on any other of like taste, without regard to local divisions, and without ceremony, to form a personal acquaintance or invite to a social affair to gratify the common taste. In such cases the parties are presumed to be known to each other by social reputation, and a reasonable discretion will avoid any serious mistake. Not to respond in some way to such an invitation would be regarded as an affront, and afterwards the person invited must make a return call, or the acquaintance will terminate.

IV.

The first call is due to the families of the clergy, and to all high officials, including the Mayor, Judges and Senators.

RETURN CALLS.

I.

First calls should be returned as early as practicable. Thirty days is very ample time for this important courtesy.

II.

In case illness, excessive occupation, or other just cause renders it impossible or very difficult to return a call in person within the proper time, a card, or note of friendship and regret may be sent by post or messenger. This will continue the acquaintance till a call in person can be made, or an invitation to a reception or other entertainment given.

HOURS FOR CALLING.

The usual hours for calling are from two o'clock to five P. M. An evening visit by a lady implies some degree of social acquaintance, and should never be made as a first call, except under special circumstances.

From seven till nine o'clock in the evening are the usual hours for gentlemen to call ; and there is nothing more delightful in society than calls by husbands and wives, or brothers and sisters, together, during the evening hours, on their acquaintances and friends.

CARDS.

I.

Plain engraved cards are always in good taste. In making visits, always send in or leave your card. At receptions, the usher takes your card. At other times, if the person called upon is not at home you turn down the right-hand upper corner of the card, to indicate that you came in person ; if the visit is intended for the various members of a family, you either give several cards, or leave one with the entire right end folded over. The choice is immaterial.

II.

On leaving the city altogether, do not omit to send a card upon which P.P.C. is written on one of the lower corners.

---

NEW YEAR'S CODE.

I.

Gentlemen may commence calling at nine o'clock in the morning, and will leave cards where the ladies may not be ready to receive them at so early an hour.

II.

At or before ten o'clock, the ladies should be in their parlors ready to receive callers.

III.

Calling may continue till ten o'clock in the evening, but not later.

IV.

First calls are due to the clergy and their families, and they may receive calls on New Year's day, or make them at their pleasure.

V.

Wines are not expected, and when on the table are rarely offered to guests. Liquors are prohibited. Coffee is the standard beverage of the day. In general, tables will be supplied with substantial food, and gentlemen will partake at their usual hours.

VI.

Calls are expected from friends, and gentlemen will not take the liberty of introducing strangers, except under special circumstances which seem to warrant such a liberty. A gentleman calling with friends may introduce them, but this is a mere formality, and gives no privileges unless followed by a subsequent invitation to the house.

VII.

First calls, especially neglected ones, may be made on New Year's day, and if friendly relations have been disturbed, either party may offer to resume them by making a New Year's call.

VIII.

Should ill health, absence, number of calls to be made, or other cause, prevent making any intended calls on New Year's day, they may be made at any time during the month; or if that is not practicable, cards may be sent by messenger or by mail, as it is scarcely possible for any gentleman of large acquaintance to make calls fully in all parts of a large city like Baltimore on the same day.

IX.

In cards a large liberty is allowed. A written or engraved visiting card may be used, or a card with the date and New Year compliments. An autograph card is considered most complimentary.

X.

To avoid confusion of names, and to assist the memory, gentlemen are expected to leave cards at all places where they may call. It is considered more complimentary to leave a card for each lady who receives the call.

XI.

To some extent, callers have been requested to write their signatures in an autograph album, provided for the occasion, but this practice has not yet been fully established.
